

Disclaimers:

The Client understands that the role of the Service Provider is not to prescribe or assess health care, medical or nutrition therapy services; or to diagnose, treat or cure any disease, condition or other physical or mental ailment of the human body. The Service Provider is also not responsible for the childcare or educational decisions the Client chooses. Rather, the Service Provider is an autism play-therapy consultant who has worked and trained for many years to support autistic children and their families in developing social skills and relationships. The Client understands that the Service Provider is not acting in the capacity of a doctor, licensed dietitian, nutritionist, psychiatrist, lawyer or other licensed or registered professional, and that any advice given by the Service Provider is not meant to take the place of advice by these professionals.

The Client has chosen to work with the Service Provider and understands that the information received should not be seen as medical advice, and is not meant to take the place of seeing licensed health professionals.

It is understood that any training provided by the Service Provider to the Client and their Support Team does not constitute professional training in the Autism Play Today™ methodology and does not equip them to work in a professional capacity with any children using the Autism Play Today™ program.

It is understood that the Service Provider is not a medical professional and will not be asked to administer any medical or dietary interventions to the children she will be working with.

The Autism Play Today™ program is a play-therapy program, based on nurturing a child's path to developing in new ways and supporting the family as a whole. Although we typically see amazing results using this methodology, the Service Provider does not guarantee any level of change in the children and families she works with.

The Client expressly assumes the risks of the Program, including the risks of trying new foods, and the risks inherent in making lifestyle and childcare changes. The Client releases the Service Provider from any and all liability, damages, causes of action, allegations, suits, sums of money, claims and demands whatsoever, in law or equity, which the Client ever had, now has or will have in the future against the Service Provider, arising from the Client's past or future participation in, or otherwise with respect to, the Program, unless arising from the gross negligence of the Service Provider.
